

REVIEW: CANYON BAKEHOUSE HAMBURGER AND HOTDOG BUNS

BY: DAIRY FREE GINA

NOTE: I was not paid for this review, although I was provided product by Canyon Bakehouse. Opinions are my own.

I love Canyon Bakehouse products especially the hamburger and hotdog rolls. Canyon Bakehouse offers breads that are dairy-free and gluten-free as well as nut and soy-free and kosher.

The hamburger buns are the best around and will make your burgers and sandwiches a celebration in eating. The Hamburger Buns are soft and don't crumble or fall apart like many other dairy-free gluten-free breads do. Each bun is made with healthy whole grains and loaded with 4 grams of fiber and 4 grams of protein. The buns do not crumble and your burger, I prefer veggie burgers, will not fall apart piled high with toppings.

I love making vegan hot dogs and wrapping them in the Canyon Bakehouse Hot Dog buns which have 3 grams of fiber and 3 grams of protein and a touch of Sweetness from organic agave syrup. The Hot Dog buns don't crack in half either like many others do. Instead they hold your hotdog and toppings and don't create a mess for you while eating.

Canyon Bakehouse breads, including the buns, are made at a dedicated gluten-free bakery in Loveland Colorado, meaning no gluten ever enters the building. Make sure you try the Canyon Bakehouse Hamburger and Hot Dog Buns at your next cook out. I guarantee you will not be disappointed.